

DDR Planning:
Results Framework for Liberia DDR Programme

Results Framework for Liberia DDR Programme

Intervention Logic	Indicators
Overall Objectives To contribute to the consolidation of peace, national security, reconciliation and development through the disarmament, demobilisation and reintegration of ex-combatants into civil society.	Three years after demobilisation, 35, 000 Ex-combatants settle in their communities and the majority participate in civil society and engage in economic activities along with other groups and do not pose threat to national security
Project Goals To facilitate an environment where ex-combatants are able to be disarmed, demobilised and reintegrated into communities of choice and have access to social and economic reintegration opportunities.	Three years after demobilisation sufficient numbers of ex-combatants are economically active or are engaged in subsistence activities and the majority have settled in their communities of choice

Intervention Logic	Indicative activities	Indicators
Result One Combatants are disarmed and weapons are disposed of	Carry out a national information and sensitisation campaign	Ex-combatants and the population at large is aware of the DDRR processes
	Combatants hand their weapons in at cantonments for storage and subsequent disposal	The disarmament of combatants contributes effectively to an improvement in security
	Collect, disable, store and destroy all weapons and munitions handed in Register, verify and report on the equipment disposal process
Result Two Combatants are registered and verified for participation in the DDRRP	Register and certify the eligibility of participants for the programme	Ex-combatants use their personal identity card to access reintegration services provided by the NCDDRR and their progress is able to be tracked
	Issue eligible participants with personal identification card
	Collect socio-economic data as part of the registration process	Socio-economic data collected is used to design effective reintegration interventions
	Carry out medical checks	Ex-combatants are aware of their health profile
	Select out vulnerable groups for tailored programmes and separate cantonment	Vulnerable groups are placed in appropriate programmes or are able to access appropriate services
Result Three Ex-combatants return to their areas of choice and are provided with a means for immediate subsistence	Provide ex-combatants with temporary lodging, food and medical services	Ex-combatants settle in communities of origin or preference
	Provide ex-combatants with pre-discharge orientation services	Ex-combatants are aware of the reintegration opportunities available to them and have reasonable expectations for the immediate future
	Provide ex-combatants with part of reinsertion safety net allowance	Ex-combatants are able to subsist in the immediate future
	Provide ex-combatant with transportation support to their destinations of choice	Ex-combatants arrive in their areas of choice
Result Four Ex-combatants are received into and contribute to the development of their communities	Initiate measures of reconciliation with the participation of ex-combatants and community members.	Ex-combatants are socially reintegrated and participate in community social and traditional events
	Promote ceremonial and traditional rites activities in support of reconciliation and acceptance	Ex-combatants are accepted as active members of their communities
	Promote measures at the communities with a mix of ex-combatants and community members	Ex-combatants extend their social network beyond their ex-military circle and improve their perception of personal security
	Promote civic education with the participation of the ex-combatants and community members	Rehabilitation and reintegration of ex-combatants contributes to national reconciliation and conflict prevention

DDR Planning:
Results Framework for Liberia DDR Programme

	Promote traditional mechanisms for dispute resolution	Social tension and conflict between ex-combatants and their communities reduced
Result Five Ex-combatants are able to engage in economic activities	Ex-combatants are provided with opportunities to access market related basic skills training	The majority of ex-combatants are economically reintegrated
	Ex-combatants are provided with opportunities to access apprenticeship schemes	Ex-combatants access opportunities generated
	Ex-combatants are provided with opportunities to access further education
	Ex-combatants are provided with opportunities to access credit/grants and skills for micro-business development
	Ex-combatants are provided with opportunities to access opportunities in public and community based development projects
	Vulnerable groupings are provided with opportunities to access tailored programmes for economic participation	